TRON

L E G A C Y

MUSIC BY DAFT PUNK

I had been listening to Daft Punk for almost ten years before I met them at the 101 Coffee Shop in Hollywood one morning in November 2007.

I sat down not knowing what to expect, and I was immediately struck by their deep knowledge and love of film and particularly the sanctity in which they held Steven Lisberger's TRON.

It quickly became clear to me that this had the potential to be an exciting collaboration.

With topics that ranged from Bernard Hermann to Wendy Carlos, the discussion revealed a shared desire to create a score that blended classic orchestral themes with an electronic minimalism in a way that had never been done before. I walked out knowing that there was an opportunity here to create something truly special. Now, three years later, we are in the final stages of mixing and the result has truly exceeded my high expectations.

Because the score was developed in parallel with the production of the film, I've had the opportunity to live with it for over a year now and it never fails to thrill and inspire me as we near the finish line. I am excited for you to experience Daft Punk's first contribution to the world of film scoring – I have a feeling it won't be their last.

Joseph Kosinski / September 2010

More than twenty five years ago I inspired Daft Punk with the original TRON. With this score, that inspiration has come back to me in full measure. The TRON cycle now continues.

The disc turns. Daft Punk has increased TRON: Legacy's bandwidth, adding depth to the low end, the Soul, and expanding the high end, the Spirit. They have decompressed the TRON universe and created a new form of cyber Opera. This is the next part of the storyline, a new benchmark – this is "Tronscendency."

Perhaps others will one day want to return to TRON with their own talents and new technologies.

When they do it will be because this music made them feel being a "User" means creating beyond the limits of every program.
